Improving Workforce Efficiencies for State & Local Government Employees

KEY BUSINESS IMPACTS FOR STATE & LOCAL GOVERNMENT

- Align specific trainings, certifications and compliance initiatives to specific job roles
- Identify skill gaps, training needs, and develop performance plans
- Modern approach to sourcing, recruiting, hiring and on-boarding
- Improve compliance requirements with auditing and reporting capabilities

According to the Human Capital Institute, 60% of the workforce and 90% of senior leadership in the government sector will be eligible to retire by 2015. Are state and local agencies ready for the overall impact this will have on their ability to execute? Also within this workforce shift, many agencies will be faced with losing large segments of institutional knowledge as their most experienced personnel reach retirement ages, so leaders must also find innovative ways to preserve and share this knowledge with new generations of employees. State and local agencies need the right talent management strategy to improve workforce retention, readiness, and efficient execution.

Cornerstone OnDemand's unified talent management platform integrates recruiting and on-boarding, learning and development, performance management, and succession planning into an end-to-end platform, allowing government agencies to achieve real-cost savings, maximize workforce performance, train and develop future leaders, and improve workforce retention—for the long-term.

Do More with Less. State and local governments can no longer afford to have individual agencies develop and maintain all their own unique systems—simplify and streamline.

Identify Future Leaders. Analyze the entire workforce to pinpoint future skill gaps created by retiring talent and build bench strength for future talent needs.

Develop Critical Skills. Deploy learning and certification programs and facilitate necessary succession planning by objectively identifying the best candidates for critical jobs at all levels.

Reduce Succession Risks. Confidently develop backfill strategies using performance review processes coupled with individual career plans.
